

Fuencaliente de La Palma

San Antonio Volcano Visitor Center

English edition

Updated on 7 September 2026

This centre offers you information about the geological origins of a volcanic island such as La Palma. In several exhibition halls you will learn about the importance of volcanic eruptions worldwide, their risks for the public and also the benefits they bring, as in the case of Fuencaliente with the eruption of the Teneguía volcano. Its unpublished images will take you back to the memory of those who lived through that eruption on the spot, and thanks to this volcano one of the best wines in the world is grown here: Malvasía. Before leaving, you will be able to fly over the municipality thanks to a large 3D screen and find out what the Sun is like, transmitted from the solar telescope (TESS) set up outside the building. It also offers an audiovisual room and a cafeteria with great views of the sea.

Outside there are two trails: one to the astronomical viewpoint for observing the solstices and the stars, and another along the rim of the San Antonio Volcano, with easy access and the possibility of using the “joëlette” chair for those who need it. The walk around the rim of the volcano takes about 30 minutes there and back, to a viewpoint overlooking the southern and western slopes of the island, where you can see a great contrast of landscapes between volcanoes, vineyards and the sea that takes your breath away at first sight.

Sky Interpretation Centre.

The Sky Interpretation Centre is a space devoted to the popularisation of astronomy and volcanology. Its facilities feature interactive and educational exhibits that reveal the relationship between volcanic activity and the universe. It offers spacious areas for all audiences, providing a unique experience for exploring the sky and the Earth.
