A selection for a first visit: Los Canarios, volcanoes, vineyards, lighthouses, salt pans and coast.

Discover the route

A selection for a first visit, from the summit to the coast: Los Canarios, the southernmost village on the island, with its Plaza Minerva and its church; the San Antonio volcano of 1677, with its visitor centre and viewpoint; the Teneguía of 1971 and the Roque Teneguía with its aboriginal engravings; the two lighthouses and the salt pans at the southern tip; Echentive beach, born from the last eruption; the Pino de la Virgen in the pine forest; the Las Indias Viewpoint over the west coast; and the vineyards of Llanos Negros. They are spread across the municipality and do not form a continuous walking route: choose your stops according to the time you have.
